Nonprofit organizations report two major activities: their fundraising and the number of volunteers hours logged. To keep our 501c(3) status, Humanity TV, Inc. provides this information. We are asking all of our volunteers to visit www.projectkatrinavolunteers.net and click on the Volunteer DC tab where you will open up a volunteer sign-up form. You only have to register once and then open up the clock to keep track of your hours. We appreciate your help! By tracking your volunteer efforts and hours, you help us continue our work in rebuilding the lives of the residents of the Gulf Coast of the USA.

The TravelTelevision.org TV series continues to be produced monthly due to the efforts of many volunteers. Upcoming episodes include stories on the new Visitor's Center at the Library of Congress, a profile on the 100 Best Events in 2009, and interviews with authors Mary Beth Bond, Patricia Shultz and Costa Crist of National Geographic.

Each episode focuses on the volunteers, with stories of groups from New York, California, the University of Kentucky and others who are rebuilding parks, creating homes with Habitat for Humanity, and helping people return to their homes in the Gulf coast. Look for these stories and more on TravelTelevision.org.

We want to thank everyone who volunteered with Travel Television at the Tiger Woods AT&T Golf Tournament in 2008. Thanks to all your hard work and the success of our booths, we have been selected as one of the nonprofit organizations who will be working at the 2009 tournament.

This year everyone's fingers are crossed that Tiger Woods will be at the Potomac tournament, scheduled for June 30 through July 5, 2009. While the winter weather makes the tournament seem like a million light years away, it is not too soon to pencil it into your calendar and to let us know that you're interested in working at Congressional again.

As a volunteer you get free admission for the day you work, meal vouchers, and free parking and shuttle bus service to the course. You can also come early to watch the golf and then report to the tent, or vice versa.

The Tiger Woods Tournament was hard work, but it was also a great deal of fun. We did so well that our tent manager has requested that as many of us return as possible. Please consider volunteering again and bringing along a few friends. The more volunteers we have at Travel Television, the more we can continue to fund public access television and websites that promote volunteerism and rebuilding in the Gulf Coast.

And here's another opportunity for the golfers in our group: we're offering a chance to save at hundreds of golf courses in the Mid-Atlantic States. You could save up to $40 per round with the Tee Time Golf Pass. Check out the list of participating courses at www.teetimegolfpass.com. Your $50 tax-deductible contribution gets you access to this discount program. This offer is available exclusively to our volunteers. Send your check, made out to Humanity TV, Inc., to:
